The decision on how to respond should be made on a case-by-case basis. Depending on the breach, not all steps may be necessary, or some steps may be combined.

The following overview is used by FYI Training as the basis for preparing a Data Breach Response Plan.

Responding to a data Breach

Step 1 Contain	Contain the breach and make a preliminary assessment: Take immediate steps to contain breach. Designate person/team to coordinate response.
Step 2 Evaluate	Evaluate the risks for individuals associated with the breach: Consider what personal information is involved. Determine whether the context of the information is important. Establish the cause and extent of the breach. Identify what is the risk of harm.

Responding to a data breach

Step 3: Notify	Consider breach notification: Risk analysis on a case-by-case basis. Not all breaches necessarily warrant notification. Should notifications occur? Where there is a real risk of serious harm, notification may enable individuals to take steps to avoid or mitigate harm. Consider: Legal/contractual obligations to notify. Risk of harm to individuals (identity crime, physical harm, humiliation, damage to reputation, loss of business or employment opportunities. Process of notification: When? As soon as possible. How? Direct contact if possible (mail/phone). Who? The affected individual. What? Description of the breach, type of personal information involved, steps to help mitigate, contact details for information and assistance, other actions underway Should others be notified: Australian Skills Quality Authority? Office of the Australian Information Commissioner? Police/Law Enforcement? Other organisations affected by the breach or contractually required to notify?
Step 4: Prevent Reoccurrence	Review the incident and take action to prevent future breaches: Fully investigate the cause of the breach. Consider developing a prevention plan. Option of audit to ensure plan implemented. Update security/ response plan. Make appropriate changes to policies and procedures. Revise staff training practices.
